Book of the week

This is a new feature for the newsletter and will showcase some favourite books from our staff, children and members of the community. I will do the first few to get us up and running, and I will begin with one of my favourite books for younger children. Tyrannosaurus Drip by Julia Donaldson and David Roberts is about a duckbill dinosaur egg which is mistakenly hatched by a fierce, war-loving Tyrannosaurus family. Little Tyrannosaurus Drip is vegetarian and peaceful and can't keep up with his adopted family. He eventually finds salvation in the arms of a Duckbill tribe where he realises he belongs. The mean Tyrannosaurus try to capture Drip and take him back to their home, only to realise that it might not be as easy as they think... I particularly like reading this book aloud to children, as it has lots of rhyming text which children can join in and remember, plus some great illustrations. I also like the gentle anti war message. Robin

From our on-the-spot reporters

On Tuesday the girls and boys went to a football tournament at Talacare Sports Centre. The girls first match was 1-0 with a goal scored by Apollona. As for the boys, the score was 3-0, all goals scored by Kian after waiting on the bench! 2nd match for the girls was 1-0 win with Apollona scoring. For the boys' second match, the score was 2-1 with Louis scoring both goals. In the last match the girls won 3-0 with Ava scoring one and Apollona scoring 2. A mighty win for the boys in their final match with a 5-0 goal from Mali 1, Kian 2 and Louis 2. A big thanks to Jordan and Mitch.
