Dear Parents/Carers,

As we mentioned in our Yr 6 SATs meeting last week, it has been brought to our attention that some on the secondary school's Induction days are when we are away for School Journey. Firstly, we'd like to apologise for this; when we booked the trip in April 2016, we did not know that this would clash with the induction mornings. Each year they are different and the schools had not released this information at the time.

I have been in touch with the schools that your child might be attending next year and they have all reassured me that other schools have the same problem. They have had lots of schools in the past where children haven't been able to attend their induction morning. Most schools I have spoken to have also explained that their first days back at school are Yr 7 only and they offer summer events for the children (see below).

This is a summary of what is happening or what has been arranged as an alternative for the children:
